When browsing through the official websites of Windows applications, sometimes you'll come across with the "Requires Windows 8.1" message. This is in particular true for those who prefer to use the UWP version of Microsoft Edge instead of the more classic desktop web browser. While using a desktop environment is definitely a lot better in many ways, it still has its limits, especially when it comes to web browsing.

Secred Box is a portable application that lets you safely store your important secrets, from secret notes to credit card details. It can generate secure passwords to ensure you never forget your important information, and add accounts to your device. After you select what information you want to add, you can generate a random password to encrypt the text in a separate text file, with the ability to later export it in a human-readable format. After that, you can add the details to the desired account or category. If you want, you can also add more than one, and all the stored information can be listed later. It is also possible to create a completely new secret note, from scratch, using the built-in editor, and then share it with others, or add a separate password to protect it. When exporting the list, you can select the type of secret note you want to include, as well as the size and position, and then save the file. The application is very portable, and can be run from any USB memory stick. This program requires a memory stick with 8GB or more storage space, to be able to store enough information.
