It is updated regularly, and you will find the newest versions in the Adobe Creative Cloud. Adobe Elements software offers features which greatly ease the manipulation of images using tools, brushes, masks, transparency effects and many others. The program offers most, but not all, of the features of Photoshop. Elements contains a wider variety of advanced tools and contains more useful features than the version of Photoshop for Mac (previously Photoshop Elements). Photoshop Elements is a free application and version 11 only comes with limited support for the Mac. Adobe Photoshop for Mac takes longer to use and has a higher price. Q: Instantiation of another object is deallocated if I call a function I have the following problem: I have a class called NTfViewController which has 3 view's (which in this case are not of type UIView, rather I have given them their own class "UIView" to avoid name clashes, if it makes a difference), something like this: class NTfViewController: UIViewController{ var sView: UIView? var mView: UIView? var mViewController: AVPlayerController? var scene1: NTfScene? var scene2: NTfScene? } I get the AVPlayerController from the UIViewController in the function override func viewDidLoad() { super.viewDidLoad() // Do any additional setup after loading the view, typically from a nib. // self.view = view var screenX: CGFloat = 50 var screenY: CGFloat = 50 var myPlayer : AVPlayer? = AVPlayer() var avPlayerLayer : AVPlayerLayer? = AVPlayerLayer() avPlayerLayer?.frame = view.frame avPlayerLayer?.videoGravity = AVLayerVideoGravity.resizeAspect avPlayerLayer?.player = myPlayer avPlayerLayer?.position = CGPoint(x: screenX, y: screenY) avPlayerLayer?.hasPriority = true view.layer.addSublayer(avPlayerLayer!) myPlayer?.play() } my function that does the initialization of the AVPlayerController and sets its size to 800x600 which is the screen size of the simulator: func createPlayer() { var gPlayer : AVPlayer? = nil gPlayer = AVPlayer() gPlayer?.moviePlayerController?.view.frame = CGRect(x: 0, y: 0, width: 800, height: 600) gPlayer?.moviePlayerController?.view.
